Head Start

Board approves program

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Almost one-half million pre-school children participate in the nation-wide Headstart program that was brought to Michigan by a local woman, Lorrena Burton in 1965.

Today 160 local economically disadvantaged children, aged 3 to 5, benefit from the program.

"The best thing Headstart does is make families feel good about themselves. They go home with self esteem. They have something to give. They feel they are okay," said Kathy Darnell, assistant director of Headstart in Romulus at Mt. Pleasant School off Hannan Road. Harold Connon is the director.

Former Chief Pediatrician of Johns Hopkins Hospital and early organizer of Headstart, Dr. Robert Cooke said, "The early years of childhood are most critical in the poverty cycle. During these years, the creation of learning patterns, emotional development and the formation of individual expectations and aspirations take place at a very rapid pace. A child of poverty is clearly deficient in these processes, which lay the foundation for a pattern of failure and thus a pattern of poverty throughout the child's entire life."

Headstart is designed to break the cycle of poverty and provide a comprehensive program.

In this federally-funded program, 90 percent are income eligible. "The other 10 percent include children with special needs of speech, hearing, development, physical, emotional or other handicap. The children are tested in these areas," Darnell said.

"Some kids have not developed as far along as others. In the program, they learn through play. They use play-dough to develop fine motor skills which can enable them to use a scissors for example. They play with water and learn math: a cup is a quarter-full or half-empty. Kids are fascinated with learning.

"We want to mainstream the children into society. We have contact with other agencies for their benefit. We have one blind boy who goes to school in Livonia but comes here in the afternoon to socialize. It's important for all the children to have that interaction," she said.

"Headstart gives these children opportunities they normally would not have. They learn a lot socially just playing around," explained Darnell.

School days are busy. There are ten students for each staff member and 20 in a class.

"Headstart encourages parental involvement. We have a strong parent-volunteer program. They are trained in all areas and are active in the decision making process. This is one of the few organizations where parents have a voice and it's a real positive aspect," she said.

Parents have organized field trips and other activities. They sponsored a fund drive for Easter Seals. "It has made them feel good about themselves because they have helped individuals less fortunate than themselves.

"The parents will have an entry in the Romulus Festival Parade. It was their idea and their slogan: 'Headstart is building better families.' It's great that they interpret it that way," smiled Darnell.

"Our staff is really dedicated and committed to the program. It's more than a job. There's too much work not to believe in it," she said.

The last Board of Education meeting approved an operating budget of $192,735 for the Headstart Program. Of that, $144,600 is funded by the federal government.

Business boasts positive profile

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

More than 80 percent of the manufacturing businesses which operate in Romulus think the city is a good or excellent place to do business.

Thirty-four percent of the manufacturers in Romulus plan to construct a new building within the next five years. Twenty-eight percent plan to expand.

These are just some of the positive results from a year-long study recently completed manager for the task force which collected the data. Karan Cantrell of Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce, Richard Irving of Solvent Chemical Products and Richard Viskochill of the city of Romulus were also on the task force.

A major objective of the study was to provide a profile of businesses in the community, improve communication between government and business and attempt to identify problems and provide solutions.

Troy was the largest study with 300 manufacturers and Charlotte had the fewest with 35. The data obtained should serve as the foundation for planning and strengthening the local economy. A strong local economy means a strong state.

by Michigan Bell for the city of Romulus.

"The Michigan Industrial Business Retention and Expansion Study for Romulus was conducted through the joint sponsorship and support of the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce, the city of Romulus and Michigan Bell," said Steve Balasia area manager of economic development at Michigan Bell who presented the results to leaders of local business and government last Wednesday.

"Michigan Bell has sponsored similar studies during the past two years in Wayne, Westland, Plymouth and Plymouth Township. Thirteen studies across the state are complete with eight underway. Troy was the largest study with 300 manufacturers and Charlotte had the fewest with 35.

"The data obtained should serve as the foundation for planning and strengthening the local economy. A strong local economy means a strong state. And a strong manufacturing business has a definite ripple effect within the economy," he said.

The 39-page study solicited responses from each chief executive officer of the 68 manufacturing firms operating in Romulus. Forty-eight responded.

Mary Fronczak of Farmers Insurance Group was project

"It's a great sales tool," said Charlene Jones-Mitchell, community affairs manager for Michigan Bell. "Not only do I think this is a great town but so do the local businesses," she said of the final analysis.

Several questions pertaining to local government and local agencies were asked by the task force. More than 80 percent are satisfied with local police and fire protection. Other city services were rated satisfactory by 70 percent or more of the respondents.

Thirteen firms are planning to expand a total of 110,000 square feet. Sixteen firms will build new buildings totaling 130,000 square feet.

"There's tremendous growth planned for the next four years. People are positive about the future," he added.

Dick Irving, president of Solvent Chemical said, "This is an eye opener for the city of Romulus. We in the business community are interested in expansion. Businesses need to become aware of what the local government can offer. None of it is any good if you don't use or know it's there." Another local businessman was quoted after leaving the presentation at the Hilton Inn on Wickham Road, "It confirms some of the thoughts I've had about the state and local community. I'm building on."

School's out

First area schoolhouse to become museum

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The first one-room schoolhouse built in Romulus is soon to become the first museum in the city and after five changes of location, the District One schoolhouse may have found a home and a friend in the local historical society.

Significantly, a kick-off ceremony for the 147-year-old building will take place as part of the Heritage Day ceremonies Sunday which will mark the end of Romulus Festival Week and the beginning of Michigan Week.

The final dedication of the historical landmark will take place when work is complete and funds available.

The history of the building goes back nearly as far as the city. In 1837, Michigan became a state and that same year it was the first in the nation to establish public schools and compulsory education. Two years later, the township of Romulus built its first one room schoolhouse for $200. Thus, the District One schoolhouse is among the first and oldest in Michigan.

The members of the city council recently designated the schoolhouse on its new location behind the post office as an historic site.

Local people, including the members of the Romulus Historical Society and its president, Pearl Varner, are understandably excited about the project of restoration which they have undertaken.

"School children are especially interested. They will collect pennies and participate in other fund raising events to renovate the school," said Varner.

"The museum will have a strictly local theme. Only artifacts collected, found or used locally will be displayed," stressed Varner.

The Romulus Historical Society was founded in 1979 for the purpose of preserving, commemorating and recognizing local sites of historical and architectural significance.

"In 1839, a 22 by 26 foot school was built on the southwest corner of West Huron River Drive and South Huron River Drive, currently the site of Daly's Drive-In Restaurant. The surrounding area was known as Pullen's Corners or Five Points because five roads intersect at this location. The Romulus Wesleyan Church built in 1855 still occupies it's original site on one of the other corners," Varner explained.

"The Pullen family had six sons who owned much of the land near this intersection. As they sold off property and the settlement developed and moved northeastward, it became necessary to move the school building to a more centralized location. In 1892, the schoolhouse was moved to the northeast corner of Bibbins and Olive, where the police station now sits.

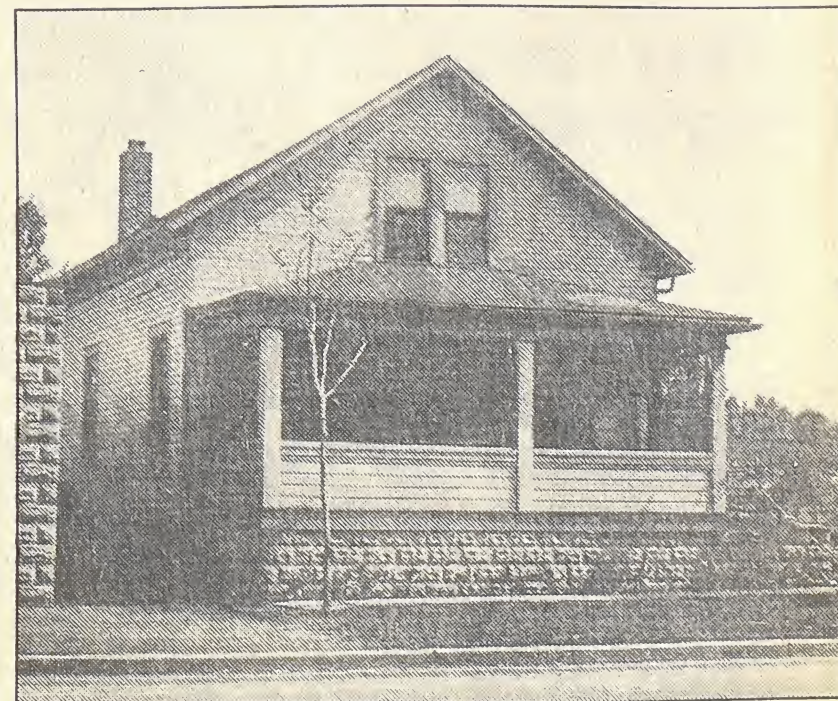

"Soon the population outgrew the little schoolhouse. The Macabees family purchased the building and moved it downtown to Goddard Road on the site of the Secretary of State Office. Here it was used as town hall and meeting place," she said.

In 1921, the building was sold to Ray and Eva Dugan and moved again to the west end of town near the railroad tracks behind the Manufacturers Bank Building.

The Dugan family reared four children in the converted schoolhouse including a set of twins. They lived in the house until 1944 but owned it until a few years ago.

Howard and Janice Overmyer purchased the property from the Dugan family and donated the building to the city of Romulus. It was then moved for the fourth and hopefully last time to its present location behind the new post office on Hunt Street near the corner of Goddard.

The move by Raynor and Westerman Company of Ann Arbor cost approximately $10,000 which was financed through city block grants.

In the early twenties, the old schoolhouse was moved to Goddard Road where it became a residence for the next 65 years.

The 1839 schoolhouse renovation kick-off will begin at 2:30 Sunday at the Romulus City Hall.

The Romulus Historical Society, the Romulus Historical Commission and the City of Romulus have urged the public to attend this pre-dedication of the local landmark.

Donations of more than $500 will be commemorated with an engraved plaque to be hung in the museum.

The museum will have a strictly local theme. Only artifacts collected, found or used locally will be displayed.

A fond farewell

Machs leave a legacy of love

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Bulldozers will level 68 years of local history within three days according to Dick Mach whose family business will "make room for progress."

A hotel, restaurant and a few small shops will rise in place of "Mach's Flowers" on Merri-man Road south of Ecorse since 1918.

The doors of the landmark business closed to the last customer April 28. Three generations of Mach family members will have moved from the 20 acre site by July 27. At that time, their four homes, four greenhouses, boiler room and flower shop will be demolished. Their only surviving competitor, Rush's Flowers on Henry Ruff Road has bought their inventory.

"We're going to miss the business," said Gerry Mach, Dick's wife of 42 years. "But I'm going to miss the people the most. I liked the personal touch."

"Third- and fourth-generation customers would come in and say their grandparents got their wedding flowers here. We know a lot about our people," she said.

You have to take good care of the younger generation. If you don't, then you're in trouble," emphasized Dick.

Mach's Flowers was founded by Dicks' parents, Richard and Sophie in Detroit years before they moved to Romulus. At 56 Clippert Street near Livernois, the Machs' had seven lots with five to seven greenhouses and a flower shop.

"There were 11 children in our family," recalled Dick. "During the war, coal was not available for the boiler so we moved out here. I was six. My parents brought two greenhouses with them and began their truck garden on 40 acres."

The greenhouses were eventually torn down and replaced during the 1920s. A couple more were added in the '30s and the store was built in 1937.

Three sons, John, Walter B. and Richard took over the business when their father passed away. John died in 1960 and Walter B. in 1967. Richard (Dick) is 75 years old.

Throughout history, the business was only operated by family members. At the peak in the 1960s, the business employed 10 people. Before they closed, there were seven.

"Now we can have holidays off," joked Gerry. "In fact, we're closed now so we wouldn't have to work on Mother's Day. This is the first holiday I haven't worked since we married in 1944."

Sixty-six year old Walter C. "Tut" moved here with his father John when he was a year old. "I left here for four years to join the service. That was the only time I was away and this is the only job I have ever had," Tut said.

Tut and his wife Eula, with Dick and Gerry, worked the day-to-day operations. They will now retire.

It was just last week they received a call for a floral arrangement for a 30th birthday. "They asked for a vase of dead flowers with a black ribbon. We covered everything including jokes," laughed Gerry.

"We see people at the most important times of their lives - baptisms, birthdays, weddings and funerals. I like Christmas the most. The season begins a month before and you're not rushed. It's busy but nice," added Eula. "It's our biggest holiday and getting bigger." "Easter used to be the biggest. Now is gets lighter and lighter every year. I don't know why. It used to be everybody had to have a plant or a corsage, even the babies. Ten years ago, cars used to line up and down the street and park on both sides.

"Business was terrible this year for everybody in the industry on this holiday," said Dick.

The Machs were very sensitive to needs and situations of their customers. "The boutonniere was on the house when the kids picked up a corsage for the prom. We always did that," said Dick.

"It's a very personal business. You have to handle people just right. Sometimes they can get you crying and you don't even know the person," noted Gerry.

Memories of living near the airport are bittersweet for the Machs.

"You can't keep this flat roof from leaking. It was never a problem until planes started to get bigger and more frequent. The vibrations from some planes shake the whole house. After awhile you learn from the sound which type of plane," related Dick.

Over the years, Dick Mach has seen two crashes. "One was an experimental plane that just spiralled down about a quarter mile from here. But it is a very, very safe airport. They must have one of the best records in the world," he said. "It doesn't pay to complain.

they'll just come a little lower the next time," Tut laughed.

Tut and Eula will retire to the small town of North Adams. "Nobody but the real estate lady knows where it is," grinned Eula.

"We wanted a house with some ground. It's the house of our dreams on five acres," said Gerry and Dick of their future Farmington Hills home.

"There's a lot of memories and we're going to miss it, but we've got more work to do now than ever before. At least, now we have holidays off," Dick, Gerry, Tut and Eula agreed in unison.

We see people at the most important times of their lives - baptisms, birthdays, weddings and funerals. I like Christmas the most. The season begins a month before and you're not rushed. It's busy but nice.

Task force takes on airport odor

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

What looks beautiful, serene and peaceful but smells like rotten eggs, singed hair and burnt rubber? The answer according to some: Romulus in springtime.

The reason: ethylene glycol, an airplane de-icing agent, accumulates with runway runoff water at Detroit Metropolitan Airport in two holding ponds near the southeast corner of Romulus.

According to local residents, this has been an ongoing problem for more than 10 years. Finally last week, a task force comprising airport and city officials, local residents and a Department of Natural Resource (DNR) Specialist, officially met for the first time to review the ever-present problem.

"It was horrible," said Councilman Fred Block speaking of the tour he and several others received during the task force meeting.

Milt Mack, Wayne County commissioner also attended.

"There's about 40 acres of water and it looks like black ink. We really have a problem and the airport doesn't know how to get rid of it. Nearly 100,000 gallons of water a day is going into a sanitary sewer and it still seeps over the top. It was sickening to see. Mack was quite surprised. He got a nose-ful," continued Block.

Ten years ago a letter dated March 11, 1976 from the DNR stated, "The odor occurring from the vicinity of the Detroit Metropolitan Airport was created by an ethylene glycol which is used as a de-icing chemical for commercial aircraft. This substance was contained in airport storm water retention basins from which most of the odors emanated."

Catherine Morse, the Water Quality Analyst for the DNR working with the task force, has taken soil samples of property in the vicinity of the Frank and Poet Drain at Harrison and Homefield.

"We've gotten the results from four of the samples taken," said Morse. "The results were negative. We expected that. Some samples were from soil in the drain itself. There was not enough ethylene glycol concentrated in the soil to test positive."

"The Frank and Poet Drain has been relatively dry except for rainwater. The last time the drain flooded was last spring when my neighbor rowed his boat over on my property. Officials told us that ethylene glycol breaks down after three of four months and is not toxic. We are not happy," said Charles Wiswell, a resident of Harrison Road and member of the task force.

The results of the other soil samples are expected next week.

Airport officials say the reason the problem is so bad this year is because of the increase in air traffic to between 700 and 900 flights per day.

Mike Conway, an airport spokesman said, "Airlines are more conscious of safety after the crash of the Air Florida flight caused by ice on the wings of the plane. Several people were killed when it crashed into a Washington bridge."

Solutions to the problem range from draining the ponds or adding something to either dilute or kill the odor caused by the ethylene glycol.

"We are pleased that finally a task force has been organized. The problem would never have happened if people were doing their job like they were supposed to. Somebody has stubbed their toe," said Wiswell.

1 injured, 3 dead in auto accidents

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

One man died and three others were critically injured in unrelated traffic accidents which occurred early Sunday morning in Romulus.

The first accident occurred at 2:10 a.m. on Tobine Road when a 1979 Chevrolet driven by Ronald Floyd Jones, 26, of Livonia and his passenger Donald Leroy Hopper, 28, of Westland disregarded the flashing lights at a railroad crossing. The northeast bound car was struck by a southbound C and O railroad engine.

"The car had stopped in front of the tracks but proceeded when the train hit. Both men are listed in critical condition," said Romulus Inspector John Lewis.

Neither man was wearing his seatbelt and there are no crossing arms at that intersection police officials reported.

The fatality occurred only 30 minutes later at 2:40 a.m. on I-275 north of Eureka Road.

David John Frankhouse, 22, of Newport was killed when his 1984 Ford EXP was traveling south and struck the stationary concrete base of a sign.

His passenger, Gary Allan Deschenes, 22, of Carlton was taken to Wayne County Medical Center and is in critical condition. According to police officials neither was wearing a seatbelt.

romulus news in brief

Store owner is lotto winner

The owner of R.J. Party Stop II and the Shell Gas Station in Romulus, Ray J. Swidan, found out last Wednesday that he had been driving around for two weeks with a $2 million winning Lotto ticket in the glove compartment of his car. His wife, Debbie, discovered the April 23 ticket and one-fifth share of a $10 million Jackpot. They are the parents of two children and expecting a third. The Swidan's received their first payment of $100,000 last Thursday and will get similar installments until the year 2005. Ironically, he purchased the winning ticket from another local party store, Kegger's. The 31-year-old resident of Allen Park had not returned to work and according to employees, has been "celebrating."

Romulus police are honored

The Romulus Police Department won second place in the Annual Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police Traffic Safety Memorial Award contest for cities with a population between 20,000 and 35,000. The award commended the department for their commitment and accomplishments in support of traffic accident reduction within the community. Police Chief Charles Wilmoth said, "We will continue to direct our efforts during the year in reducing the human and economical losses resulting from highway traffic accidents."

Church finds new home

A special wedding ceremony will be held at the newly formed Assembly of God Church in Romulus. Members will have a new home this Sunday at 36572 Goddard Road in downtown Romulus at 10:00 a.m. In addition to the wedding ceremony, there will be a special singing and a message from the pastor, Rev. Howell Kelly. There will also be an evening meeting at 7 p.m. which will mark the beginning of a two-week Revival Meeting with the Evangelist Willie Perez of Detroit. The public is cordially invited to attend both services.

ROMULUS FIRST SCHOOLHOUSE
WHEREAS: In the year 1839 Romulus School District #1 was officially formed in the Township of Romulus. For the sum of Two hundred dollars ($200.00), a one room schoolhouse was built on the southwest corner of West Huron River Drive and South Huron River Drive, known as Pullens Corners. The approximate location is the current site of the Daly's Drive-In Restaurant; and
WHEREAS: Development to the north and the east created the necessity for a more centralized location, and in 1892 the schoolhouse was moved to the north east corner of Bibbins and Olive; and
WHEREAS: The ever increasing student population soon outgrew the little schoolhouse and the building was offered for sale; and
WHEREAS: The building was purchased by the Mac-

WHEREAS: Once more, outliving its usefulness, in 1921, the little building was moved to the west end of town, where it was converted to a residential dwelling, becoming the home of Ray and Eva Dugan; and

Auto insurance rates vary locally
Westland, Wayne fall; Romulus, Inkster rise

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

Inkster and Romulus residents tend to drive faster, travel farther and get in more injury-related accidents than drivers in the Wayne-Westland communities, according to officials at AAA of Michigan who recently announced a wide range of cuts and hikes in auto insurance rates.

Paul Austin, a public relations representative out of the AAA Detroit office, said recently that thanks to a new law that will go into effect July 1 motorists in some western Wayne County communities will be shelling out more for car insurance while others will receive a slight break on premium rates.

The change in rates, Austin said, stems from the passage of Public Act 10 by the state Legislature in April that eliminates three restrictions which had for years been placed on insurance companies. When the new law becomes effective July 1, insurance companies will no longer have to 1) limit the number of different rates across the state to 20, 2) have no more than a 10 percent difference in rates between adjacent cities and townships and 3) have the lowest rate be no less than 45 percent of the highest rate.

Austin said that the vast changes in the rate structure for western Wayne County motorists are due to the elimination of the restriction which said that adjacent cities could not differ more than 10 percent in the insurance premiums.

Thus, he said, Romulus residents who have for years enjoyed the safe driving records and few reports of thefts in the adjoining cities of Wayne and Westland and Brownstown Township will now pay an average $30 per year extra for insurance coverage.

Likewise, Westland residents who have in some places been forced to be grouped with the driving records of residents ber of personal injury claims resulting from traffic accidents. These claims which involve medical bills and work loss, Austin said, are far higher than the average claim ratio throughout the state.

Saying that these accidents don't necessarily happen in Inkster and Romulus, Austin said that the problem lies with the driving habits of the residents of the two cities and not the roads or traffic flow in them.

In contrast, Austin said that Wayne, Westland and Canton residents generally report fewer accidents, fewer auto thefts years of claims reported in each of the specified territories. If the number exceeds the average ratio, he said, the rates will increase in proportion to the excess. Likewise, if the figure falls below the set level, rates will fall in proportion.

Soon to enjoy a 5 percent decrease in rates, Austin said, will be AAA-insured drivers in the cities of Wayne and Canton. Westland premiums will decrease 5 to 10 percent, depending on the section of the city, while Romulus and Inkster residents will be paying 5 to 10 percent more this year for car insurance.

Austin said the average customer pays $500 each year for standard collision and liability insurance. A 5 percent decrease for the cities of Wayne, Westland and Canton will mean a savings of $25 each year, Austin said. In addition, a 5 percent hike for Inkster and Romulus drivers will cost an added $30 each year.

AAA of Michigan insures 25 percent of all Michigan motorists and is the only insurance company to announce a change in rate structures due to the new law.

However, analysts are predicting that the two other largest insurers in the state - Allstate and State Farm - will follow in a similar fashion changing insurance rates for several motorists in western Wayne County.

“Soon to enjoy a 5 percent decrease in rates will be AAA-insured drivers in the cities of Wayne and Canton. Romulus and Inkster residents will be paying 5 to 10 percent more this year for car insurance.” in the adjacent cities of Inkster and Redford will now save about $25 each year due to the law.

Although city officials in the cities that have been hit by rate increases point to overall consistent crime reductions in their cities as a means of justifying lower rates, Austin said that crime and theft are not the major reasons auto rates escalate.

According to the AAA official, Romulus and Inkster residents who are insured by AAA have a considerably high num-and personal injuries than the statewide median. Although he could not pinpoint the claims that residents in these communities seem to be report the least, Austin said that generally the drivers in these communities tend to have a better record and fewer collisions.

Belleville drivers, he added, are generally at the state average for claims reported and therefore will not see a change in their rate structure.

To determine the new rate structure, Austin said AAA officials look at the last two

Bonzai in 'No Wonderland'

Remember the old World War II movies with the Japanese kamikaze pilots diving at the U.S. Naval fleet screaming the famous war cry "Bonzai!"?

Today, the battle cry is a silent scream, audible only in the minds of those able to read between the lines of recent news reports. We are clearly losing the economic war of today and what is worse, a full-scale defeat is just over the horizon.

The sun has not only risen again for Japan, it is blistering, dehydrating and frying old Uncle Sam. What Japan and Asia have in store for us is competition like never before in the areas of computer hardware, software, artificial intelligence and telecommunications.

Recent reports in business publications detail IBM's deteriorating field position to Asian companies. On our recent trip to Taiwan, Multitech Computers was introduced to our traveling band of journalists. Having recently installed our own IBM in-house system, I know just enough about computer installations to be dangerous.

As I ran down my mental check list, asking comparative questions, it became most apparent that Taiwan is certainly in the running for IBM's former title as the king of computer systems. The Multitech computer, it would appear, offers more bang for the buck, doing everything IBM does, for less money.

One can only speculate that South Korea is not far behind on the trail, just as they are in the automobile industry. Japan and other Asian competitors in the world market have government policies and programs geared to drive their people forward with a fervor we only think we infrequently experience in our business world.

The Japanese, in particular, are as ruthless when competing in an economic war as they were in their World War II flying zeros. They are moving into our backyard, setting up shop and taking over our homeland. We can either get off our hindquarter muscles, get on our feet and get in the race or start bowing to the emperor.

It certainly is not that we are only vaguely aware of what's going on. It's more a matter of too little, too late. It's high time we develop a coordinated, aggressive trade policy and a federal agency to lead the way.

We must mobilize and develop products and services for export to Asian countries. When "bonuses" or "payoffs" are customary to grease the tracks of foreign trade, our laws should consider that the customs and traditions of others must be adapted. "When in Rome..." I don't like it, but in reality, those are the rules.

We must recognize that the only organized business in America that readily provides 35 percent of our exports is in serious danger. Farming needs every break possible, not grain embargoes to erode their already tenuous future. We need to get smart, organized and aggressive in playing the export game.

A major portion of our trip to the Republic of China revolved around our witnessing the opening of the USPRO trade show. At the exposition, each American state was invited to display products or services which were ready for export into the ROC. Booth displays included representatives of the state, literature, machines, demonstrations and giveaways. As we rounded the corner heading toward our state booth, I fully expected to see an expensive, well-done display of Michigan produce accompanied by some smiling Michigan faces and the warm type of welcome others were receiving at various state exhibitions.

As the accompanying photos indicate, the Michigan presentation was less than memorable. Perhaps these pictures are worth a thousand words, and best explain why Michigan isn't in the race for foreign trade dollars.

I don't criticize our Asian friends for their success, nor fault them for their competitive drive. Far better that we hurl balance of payments percentage points at each other than torpedos or bombs. But, the reality of this economic war became more painful and the outcome more obvious, seeing this empty, unmanned booth. Perhaps it's time we "get with the program". Our friends in the ROC plead with us to "listen up" and begin to pursue this trade imbalance predicament with a fervor equal to that of the Japanese, who are, make no mistake, our competitors.

Our ignorance and propensity for self-gratification does not bode well for the final outcome of this war.

It would seem that either we "fiddle while Rome burns" and accept the consequences, or take heed of the warning of those in Asia who want only to compete economically in peace in order to bring about a better life for all mankind. One will result in a healthy, competitive economic environment that will ultimately feed the world and add to stability. The other will one day soon trigger new trade restrictions, shortages, and tensions that will only head us all toward conflict.

Come on guys, "up and at em".
See you next week.

A case for better judgment

Judge Gail McKnight is a woman with opinions about this community, its services and needs that should be respected. Her verdicts, if you will, are based on her years of experience within the court system of Wayne County and her time on the bench at the 18th District Court in Westland. Her advice is valuable, unbiased, and in our opinion, invaluable.

The recent discussion, then, at the City of Westland Public Hearing regarding uses of Community Development Block money seems to us, puzzling, at best.

Why would members of the council appear to favor a plan which would totally eliminate their economic support of an agency such as First Step, while adding $69,000 (this is not a misprint) to the budget of the city Department on Aging?

First Step is an agency which provides shelter, counseling and aid to victims of domestic violence. Last year, 142 beaten, abused and physically mistreated women from Westland were helped at this shelter. They were protected, counseled and helped while their bruises, both physical and psychological, healed and then sent on to other agencies which provided the help they needed.

The shelter also provided for for 92 other victims who live in the area, but not within the city limits of Westland.

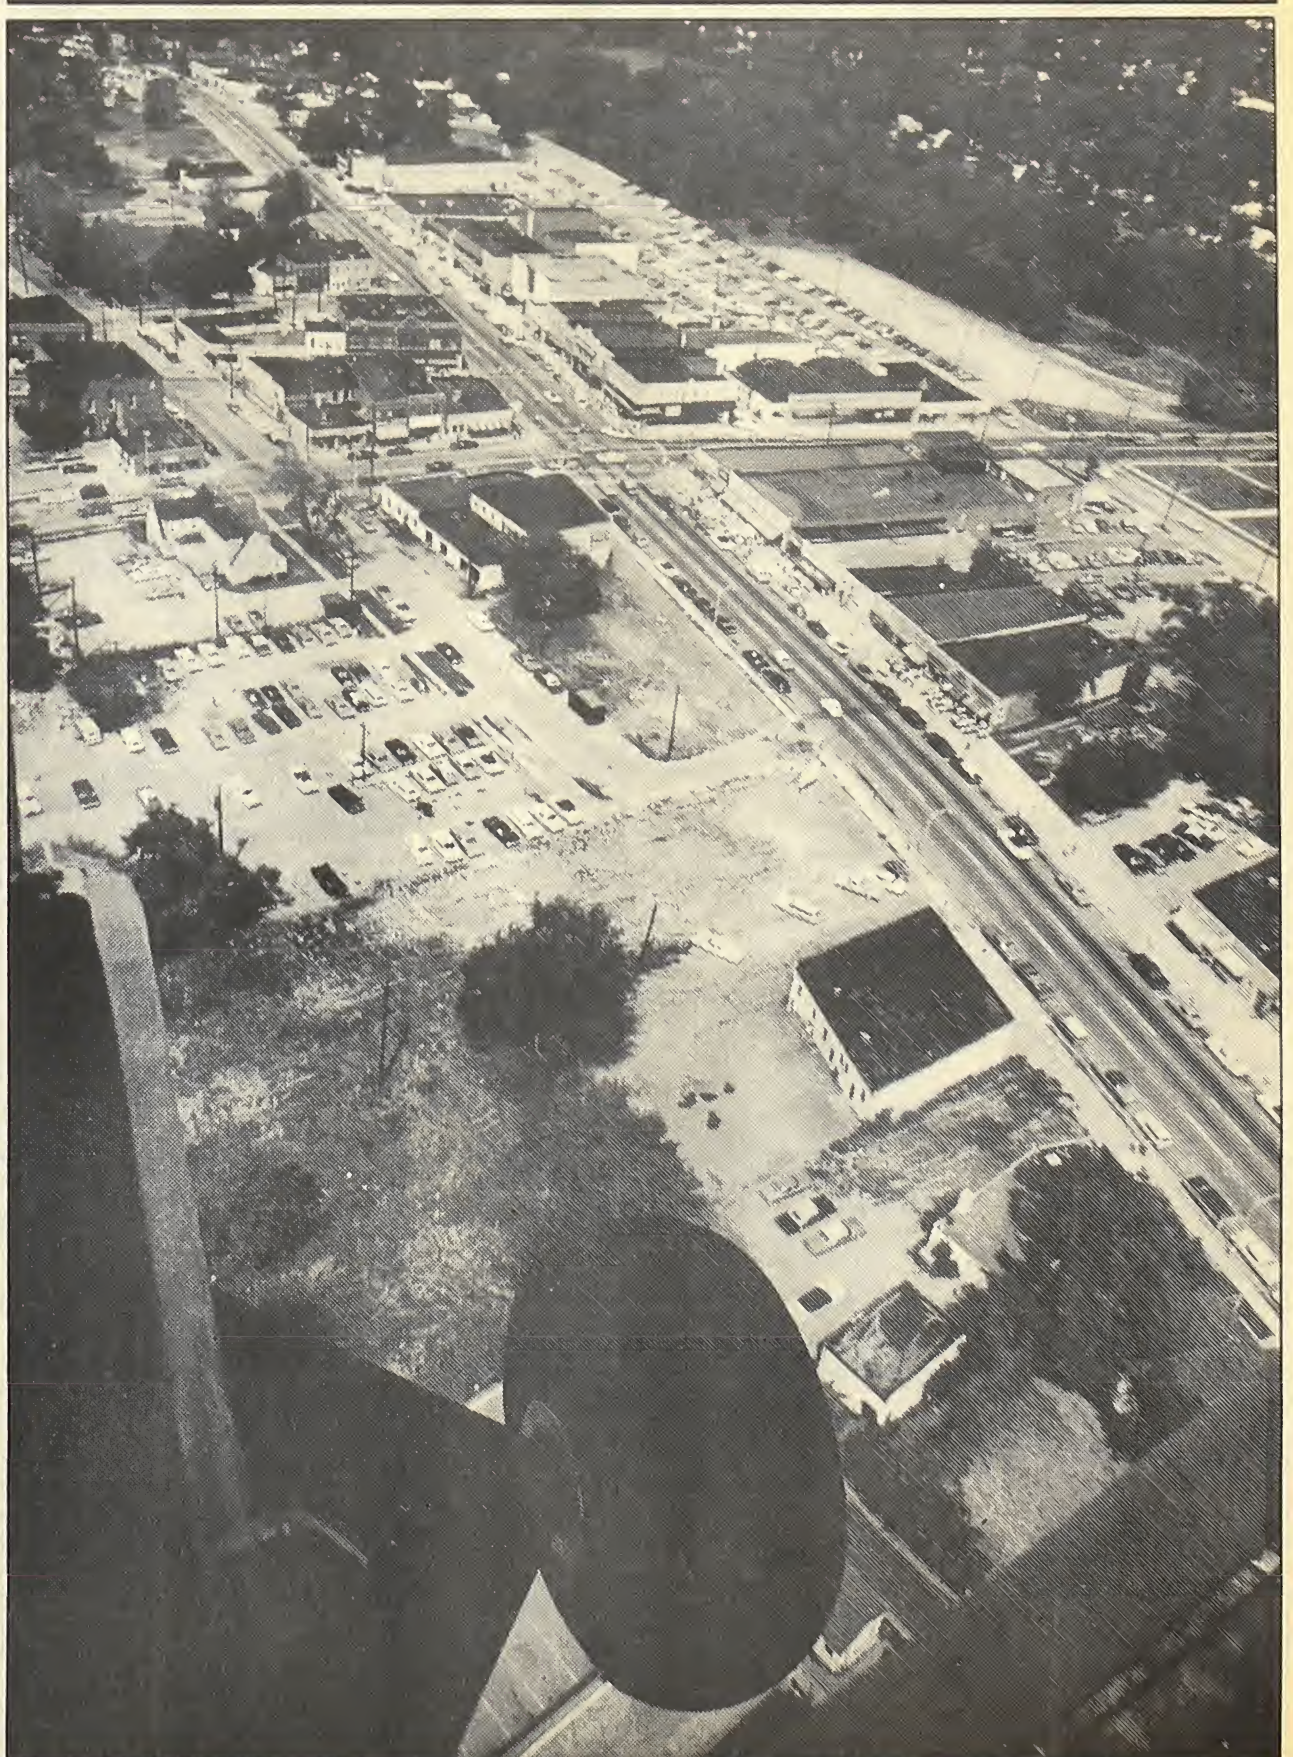

First Step is supported with community contributions, and the clear value of the care and aid this facility provides cannot be questioned. Why then, would the members of the Westland council appear to be ready to approve a budget in which $15,000 is stripped from their budget, while adding 58 percent to the budget of the seniors' program?

The Department on Aging in Westland is a fine organization which provides valuable and needed programs for the senior citizens there. We have no quarrel with the value of this department or the efficiency and dedication of those who operate and manage it...but a 58 percent increase?

Judge McKnight spoke to the council regarding First Step and the work this agency provides, she urged the council members to

Senator blasts system

To The Editor:

Lately, many political discussions include the issue of elected and appointed positions in Wayne County government. I wish to relay my thoughts as to why I feel the voters should determine whether the position of drain commissioner should be elected or appointed.

As a democrat, it has always been difficult for me to understand why, especially in a democratic county, voters are not given the opportunity to decide such issues, considering the fact that we are believers of the public ballot process. What is wrong with having the electorate in Wayne County make this decision at the ballot box?

The following scenario is what has been happening to the elected positions at the county level.

The current sheriff originally obtained his position through appointment by a three-member committee, then was elected to retain his position as sheriff. He was not originally elected by the people, although this is an elected position.

Quite frankly, I am firmly convinced that the current sheriff, who at the time of his appointment was the deputy clerk in the Wayne County Clerk's office, would have been defeated by Loren Pittman, who was the undersheriff at that time, if the electorate would have had the opportunity to make that decision. Instead, the "search" committee appointed a Wayne County deputy clerk to be the sheriff of Wayne County.

Mr. Lucas was originally appointed to his position as sheriff by this "search" committee while he was serving as the undersheriff to Mr. Roman Gribbs. Although he was later elected at the polls to retain his position, I believe that Mr. Lucas would have been the people's choice anyway had the electorate been given the opportunity to decide.

Before Mr. Lucas, it was Mr.

County board limits airport ground fleet

More transportation is now available at Metro Airport but not in the form of airplanes.

A bid for a large fleet of vans owned by the Detroit-based Commuter Transportation Company was selected by airport officials and unanimously approved last month by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

According to a statement from Wayne County Executive William Lucas' office, the advantage of contracting exclusively with on ground transportation company is that the airport can require specific services for the convenience of passengers.

"Commuter Transportation, with its large fleet of radio-dispatched vans, was judged best in providing quick, flexible service. Under the contract, Commuter will be the only ground transportation company licensed to sell tickets on airport property and to run a regular schedule to hotels," said the statement.

"In addition, Commuter can accept reservations to provide transportation services for large groups, small groups or individuals."

According to an official at the airport, ticket counters will be established at three locations throughout the airport and at various hotels, universities and other places in the future.

"This means we're in the major leagues when it comes to transportation from the airport," said Lucas. "We need every edge we can get competing with other cities and state for convention business and for general economic development."

Commuter currently runs seven major routes linking the airport with downtown Detroit, the east side, the new center area, the north Woodward area, Birmingham and Troy, Novi, Farmington Hills and Ann Arbor.

The company will pay concession fees of approximately $200,000 annually to the Romulus-based airport.

reconsider and at least award First Step 60 percent of the funding they requested.

But, the council and administration seemed adamant, while promising to review the planned cut and the request and, if they deem it necessary, adjust the budget plans.

We would strongly suggest that they do so. For not only have they slashed First Step from the budget while devoting more than half the total funding to the Department on Aging, they also seem prepared to kill off the Community Commission on Drug Abuse, a substance abuse counseling center, and Child and Family Neighborhood Program.

These, too, are programs dedicated to helping those in need of social service and aid. The drug program, also an agency much in favor with McKnight and the Child and Family Neighborhood program do an inestimable amount of good in the city of Westland and provide needed, necessary services.

If the money must be divided up, and if there are cuts to be made, we would suggest that it be a shared cut with each agency taking less than was requested or less than provided last year. But the cutting of these three programs while adding such an extraordinary amount to another seems desperately unfair and shortsighted.

Perhaps child drug dependents, 4-year old rape victims and beaten wives don't vote, and therefore are not worthy of consideration.

Gribbs, who was also appointed by this committee and then later elected by the people. Prior to Mr. Gribbs, it was Mr. Buback.

You have to go as far back as Mr. Andrew Baird to find an instance where this position was originally elected in Wayne County by the democratic voters in the primary at an election. In fact, you will find the similarity of this appointed process with past county prosecutors, county clerks, and several other county positions.

Basically, the public is free of any special interest groups. It is rather obvious that the positions of the committee members are in no way directly related to the responsibilities of the drain commissioner.

I am extremely disappointed with the way this appointment process has evolved because as far as I am concerned, it is really a "cover up" to let the public think that certain county positions are elected by the people when, in fact, it is a three-member "search" committee making the appointment.

With respect to the present appointment method being used, we have already prevented the public from determining who is the most qualified, therefore, why don't we truly make it an appointed position by granting this authority to the county executive, with the confirmation of the board of commissioners?

Under such circumstances, it should be safe to assume that the process of checks and balances would come into play to make sure that the person who would be appointed to perform these duties would have the proper education, experience, qualifications, and professionalism that is needed to represent the county executive and the board of commissioners.

The county executive and the board of commissioners are the ones who must interact with the position of drain commissioner through the appropriation and resolution process, as well as overseeing the position after the appointment is made through vacancy — not the committee which is neither directly related to the responsibilities of the position which they have appointed not have any supervisory jurisdiction. This person should understand in advance what his responsibilities are and who he is responsible to.

In my opinion, we are not really eliminating an elected position because, technically, that process has already been removed by certain groups who control the appointment process for elected positions. We know that one a position is held, the chances for someone else defeating the incumbent at the polls is pretty slim. Essentially, the rights of the voters have been taken away by process of the appointments being made by a three-member "search" committee.

Through this explanation, I hope the Wayne County electorate will be given the opportunity to decide whether the office of drain commissioner should be elected or appointed.

Belleville gun law under fire

To The Editor:

Now that congress has come to its senses about gun control after 18 years, one question remains. Why can't the people of Van Buren Township go to our police and get a permit to purchase a handgun?

The way it is now we must go to the the Wayne County Sheriff's Department at Metro Airport on Tuesday only from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and then after a considerable wait you get a permit. You must take the gun Tuesday only for the so-called safety inspection which is actually registration.

We know that registration has solved perhaps one crime every 10 years.

Do we have an anti-gun township board or is there a legal reason why a charter township can't issue handgun permits?

First-time homebuyers should be aware of a new statewide lending program called the "Michigan Mortgage" credit certificate.

Administered by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority, the Michigan Mortgage is a new option offered through local lending institutions that may allow homebuyers to reduce their housing expenses through a federal income tax reduction.

Michigan is the first state to take advantage of a plan authorized under the Federal Tax Reform Act of 1984. Under the plan, qualifying homebuyers may be able to effectively reduce their interest rate below 8 percent.

For example, a $50,000 conventional loan at 10 percent interest would normally cost a family $439 a month for mortgage payments (principal and interest). Under the Michigan Mortgage, that same $50,000 loan would have an effective initial interest rate of 7.7 percent and cost of $356 a month. That represents a savings of $83 per month which is made up by the federal tax credit.

An estimated 6,500 moderate income families and individuals will be able to receive a Michigan Mortgage, according to MSHDA officials who have allocated $243 million for Michigan Mortgage credit certificates.

Not everyone will be able to take advantage of the unique funding program, however. The Michigan Legislature set the income and purchase price guidelines last December.

Maximum limits for participating in the Michigan Mortgage program are $28,000 income and $60,000 purchase price for existing homes, and $30,000 income and $73,500 purchase for new houses. Up to a first-time homebuyer. In some areas current homeowners will also qualify to participate in the program.

Participating lenders will work with borrowers on a first-come, first-serve basis while funds remain for the Michigan Mortgage credit certificates. If you are considering a home purchase, and you meet the income and purchase price guidelines, you may want to inquire from local lending officials about the possibility of obtaining a Michigan Mortgage.

Further information on the program is also available from the following toll-free number 1-800-327-9158.

Just as it was written in the Enterprise
(Words in parentheses are this writers.)

May 12, 1986. Rev. T. W. McLean will be here again Sunday to conduct Episcopal services at the Baptist Church. (Church was on Main corner of Third. Changed into a store building, was once Roberts Bros. Furniture.)

A movement seems to be on foot in different parts of the country to freeze out Sunday news papers. Cleveland takes the lead.

The latest case of strikes comes from Rawsonville. Last Friday as Capt. Allen of Ypsilanti and Judge Reily of Detroit were arguing a case before Justice Barlow, the jurors struck for $1 each instead of 50 cents as the law allows and refused to give in their verdict. Finally their demands were granted for the lawyers were in a hurry to get through with the case.

Saturday evening, May 22, will be another auspicious moment in Belleville. Governor Alger will be here to address the Memorial Association. Belleville will be in all her glory when Michigan's Governor arrives. "Divine Nature" has pleased to do much for our village but the town will be resplendent with flags and flowers. Twenty five little girls in snow white costumes will constitute the reception committee. Let every citizen see to it that "Our Soldier Governor" gets a reception worthy of his position. Let every house in town display the National Colors and let our people be at the depot when the train arrives to receive and welcome Governor Alger.

Attention Everybody -- Your subscription for the encampment is due. Pay your money to E. R. Roys, our treasurer, and save us the trouble of calling for it. (This encampment was a military event at the camp grounds near the corner of Haggerty and Robbe Roads.)

The Board of Review meets at the Town Hall (Old Township Building on Main Street) one week from yesterday.

Supervisor Franklin Robbe has the assessment roll nearly completed with 17 days work.

A more beautiful day than last Friday could not be had. The sun rose bright and clear and "Old Belleville" seemed to fairly laugh. Not a cloud appeared the entire day and preparations for the great event went rapidly forward.

Neither was our representative in Detroit idle. President Cody was busy superintending the decoration of the train that would bring our distinguished guest, Col. Sylvester Larned, to Belleville. Promptly at 5 o'clock p.m. the gaily decorated train slowly steamed through the Wabash yards and was soon speeding on to Belleville. At every stop crowds of people gathered and wondered at the strange sight but the banner on the rear coach explained all, "Belleville Welcomes Col. Sylvester Larned." As the train pulled in at the station the Cornet Band played one of its liveliest airs. The platform was crowded, Col. Larned was escorted to a carriage and the parade to Music Hall began. (Col. Larned gave a patriotic speech to the Memorial Association overflow crowd at the Music Hall.)

Glenn wins division baseball title

Rockets raise over-all record to 17-1 on the season

By KEITH DeMOLAY
ANP Staff Writer

The "Comeback Gang" is at it again. The Rockets of Westland John Glenn won all six games they played last week to raise their record to a sparkling 17-1, 11-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. In the process of their six-game winning streak, the Rockets clinched the Lakes Division title and put themselves in the driver's seat of the WLAA baseball championship. The division title was the third such title that a Rocket team has won this school year. The football and basketball crowns are also housed at the Westland-based high school. The only game that wasn't decided by a comeback was the first game of Monday's doubleheader against old nemesis, North Farmington, a 10-4, victory. Shortstop Rick Tavormina led the way for Glenn with a perfect 5-for-5 day, and Chuck Hammontree had four hits. Clint Straub had three hits, but more importantly, pitched a complete game victory. He also hit his team-leading third home run of the campaign. In the second game, Glenn took a 3-2 lead on a triple by Steve Irwin in the first and a triple by Chuck Hammontree in the second. But North rallied for seven runs in the next three innings, including a home run by McDaniels, which gave the Raiders a 7-3 lead and it looked like they suicide squeeze for the sixth and final run of the inning. Chuck Hammontree's double made it 10-7 in the fifth and Irwin closed out Dan Caudell's win with two strong innings of relief. On Wednesday, Glenn became division champions with a 7-1 triumph over Walled Lake Central, ironically the same school that the football team had clinched the title against outs for a run and iced the win in the sixth when Wells and Rogala singled and scored on a double by elder Hammontree, and singles by Straub and Mike Hammontree. When Irwin fanned the last man in the seventh, the Rockets had reached one goal and, on Friday, began to set their sights on another.

Glenn was supposed to play 14 innings on Friday against Walled Lake Western but not in one game. However, that is exactly what happened as this game featured more comebacks than Sugar Ray Leonard. But the Rockets hung tough for a 7-6 win, thanks to a one-out double by Shawn Wilson. Chad Mena ran for Wilson and scored when Rogala doubled with two out.

Earlier, the Rockets had a 4-2 lead in the seventh but Western, who won the Class A championship two years ago, rallied for two runs to tie. Then the fun, nailbiting, and pacing began. Glenn took leads in the 10th and 11th innings, but each time Western responded before Rogala's double put it away in the 14th. Twelve hours later, the Rockets returned to the diamond for a doubleheader against Temperance-Bedford and rallied both times in the seventh inning for a 2-1 and 3-2 victories. Mike Hammontree was Christy Mathewson reincarnated as he got both victories, one in relief. In the first game, Glenn led 1-0 on an RBI single by Mike Wells in the fourth. Temperance tied it in the seventh, but Glenn came through in the bottom half of the inning on consecutive singles by Straub, Mike Hammontree and Steve Irwin. The second game featured tough defense and the strong one-hit pitching of Hammontree. Each time the Mules would drive ahead, Glenn put themselves back in the title race. Not quite. Up came the Rockets and down went the Raiders. Mike Wells and Tom Rogala led off with walks and scored on a C. Hammontree double. With one out, M. Hammontree tripled and North led only, 7-6. Irwin walked, then Tavormina tripled for an 8-7 lead. Jim Kenyon laid down a perfect last fall. Irwin, who was instrumental in that victory on that faraway October evening, engineered this one as well, with a six-hit, 16-strikeout performance. The Rockets scored three runs in the third on back-to-back doubles by Wells and Rogala and a single by Chuck Hammontree. In the fifth, Straub and Tavormina sandwiched doubles around two

Cherry Hill girls are closing in on Tri-River Conference title

With time running out on the school, Cherry Hill's girls' track & field team is looking for a victory at the Tri-River Conference championship to culminate and outstanding year. The Spartans closed in on their fifth league title last week with impressive victories over Taylor Kennedy and Dearborn Heights Crestwood, however, Coach Jess Shough will know if the Spartans can repeat as league champs when he runs up against Dearborn Heights Crestwood, the only team that "realistically has the talent to dethrone us." The Cherry Hill-Crestwood duel was scheduled for last night. "We look for a real close meet with them (Crestwood)," Shough commented. "The victory will go to whoever wants it most." The Spartans will be participating in their last conference championship at 1 p.m., May 21 at Schaefer Field in Southgate. Cherry Hill is scheduled to close its doors for good at the end of the current school year. Sweeping 13 of 16 events, Cherry Hill buried Taylor Kennedy 97-26, last week as sophomore Tonia Rouser captured three individual events and took part on the winning 440-relay. She leaped 18 feet, 3 1-2 inches to top the field of broad jumpers, then was clocked in 29.8 in winning the 220 and also teamed up with Michelle Stevens, Angela Jordan and Yolanda Brown to finish first (56.0) for the 440. Rouser ran a leg on the winning 880-relay, Shough selecting the line-up of Terie Crockett, Francetta Saxton and Stevens who turned in a winning time of 1:59.16.

Linda Turza also had an excellent day as she won the mile, half-mile and also helped produced a victory in the 2-mile relay, combining with Deanne Moore, Carin Mulrooney and Lisa Lawrence. In Cherry Hill's 95-32 trouncing of Annapolis, Rouser again stood out as she was clocked in 12.48 for her victory in the 100-yard dash; ran a 28.9 in winning the 220, leaped 14 feet, 7 inches in the long jump and helped in winning the 440-relay with Stevens, Jordan and Brown. All-American leads All-Area swim

Canton's Andy Flower tops line-up of elite

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It's never too late to pay tribute to a group of outstanding young athletes.

Especially when that group includes an All-American diver, Andy Flower, of Plymouth Canton fame.

Flower, a four-year-veteran of varsity competition who captured the coveted Class A crown recently, leads this year's selection of the All-Area Swim & Diving Team which is making its belated debut in The Association Newspapers.

Andy is an outstanding athlete . . . the best diver that I have ever coached.
— Hooker Wellman

"Andy is just an outstanding athlete," notes Canton Coach Hooker Wellman. "He's the best diver I have ever worked with and he'll be attending the University of Kansas on a full-ride scholarship this fall."

Flower was undefeated in dual meet competition this year and dominated the Western Lakes Activities Conference by compiling a record 466.25 points.

This year's elite swim team, chosen by area coaches, also includes Belleville's top-notch medley relay team of Matt Stoelton, Mike Ackron, Martin Duda and Eric Snider who have been clocked in 1:42.21 and the back-up medley foursome from Wayne: Kevin Martin, David Graham, Mike Barnes and John Sharnetsky who have turned in a 1:43.38 for their best time.

The 200-freestyle event has Belleville's Greg Lynch listed at the top with a 1:45.37 while Salem's Jeff Anderson (1:51.46) and Phil South (1:53.51) are close second and third place picks.

In the meantime, coaches chose Glenn's standout, John Jensen, for the 200-yard individual medley. He's backed up by Mark Papierski of Livonia Churchill and Don Harwood of Plymouth Salem who have been clocked in 2:03.16 and 2:07.04.

In the sprints, Salem's Kevin Zarow was drafted as the premier 50-yard freestyler. He has produced a 22.01, while Wayne's Sharnetsky and Salem's Rick Cummings who have times of 22.08 and 22.46 have also been chosen for the event.

Along with Flower, coaches also singled out Livonia Franklin's Bill Govier and John Glenn's Tim Dubois for their diving acuity.

Two Salem swimmers - Tony Atwell and Jamie Dunn - pace the butterflyers and joining the two is Wayne Memorial's Mike Barnes. Atwell's best this season was 54.49 while Dunn has been clocked over the distance in 55.92 and Barnes has touched in at 58.68.

Franklin has a top-notch 100-yard freestyler in Bryan Madigan whose 49.97 is the best time in the area for the event. Snider, from Belleville, and Phil Bocketti of Salem are close seconds with 51.02 and 51.44, respectively.

Wayne Memorial's "blue chip" freestyler, Kevin Martin, has the coaches' votes for the No. 1 500-yard freestyler in the area. The Wayne senior has been clocked in 4:56.4 for the event. Belleville's Jeff Thompson (5:06.09) and Churchill's Jeff Peterson (5:15.36) also have made names for themselves in the event during the season.

In the 100-yard backstroke, both Matt Stoelton and Canton's Dean Roberts turned in 57.66 in competition, and both are veteran swimmers. Coaches also believe that Salem's Dave Miller, who has a 57.83 for his best performance,

Bo is Glenn guest speaker

The halls of Westland John Glenn will be filled with the sounds of "Hail to the Victors" and "Go Blue" 7 p.m., Thursday, May 15 when the Football Boosters Club welcomes University of Michigan head football coach Bo Schembechler.

The evening, labeled "An Evening with Bo", begins at 7 p.m. with refreshments, will include a brief talk by the Wolverine coach and feature film highlights of the Michigan season.

There is a $10 admission charge.

Limited tickets are available by calling Chuck Gordon, Glenn's head football coach, at 595-2305 or 326-2203.

The film details the No. 2-nationally ranked Wolverines march to national prominence last fall.

should have a niche on the select team.

Dave Goralski, a senior with four years of varsity competition behind him, sets the pace for the 100-yard breaststroke. He had the edge over Belleville's Mike Ackron (1:03.75) and David Graham of Wayne Memorial whose best time for the event is a 1:06.60.

Belleville's 400-yard freestyle foursome of Eric Snider, Mike Ackron, Matt Stoelton and Greg Lynch nailed down the No. 1 slot for the event thanks to a 3:20.97, while Salem is next in line thanks to Kevin Zarow, Jeff Anderson, Rick Cummings and Phil Bocketti who have carded a 3:21.83.

Salem captured the Western Lakes Activities Conference championship, rolling up a 10-3 over-all record en route to the title.

Coach Chuck Olsen, also earning post-season accolades as the ANP's "Coach of the Year", had a handful of state qualifiers including Zarow who had captured the conference title in the 50-yard freestyle. A junior who has three years of varsity experience, Kevin has set varsity and Salem pool records in the 50.

The Rocks medley relay team also qualified for the state competition.

Belleville's Matt Stoelton also concluded four years of varsity competition and this year took top honors in the Wolverine 'A' in the backstroke. He led off the 12th-place state finishing medley relay team which also included Ackron, Duda and Snider.

Stoelton is not only an outstanding athlete he is also an excellent student. Matt also has lettered in baseball.

Ackron is a sophomore whose specialty is the backstroke, "but can swim just about any stroke well," according to Belleville coach Bill Snider. Duda is also an all-league selection who will be heard from for the next two years.

Snider, a freshman, is the son of the coach and has been in contact with "competitive swimming as long as he can remember." He placed third in the league in the 100-yard freestyle and was a link in that successful medley relay team.

Lynch is an all-around swimmer who also concluded four years of varsity competition. He placed 12 at state in the 200-yard freestyle after winning gold medals in the 200-freestyle and the 100-yard freestyle at the league championship.

Churchill's Mark Papierski is a freshman who qualified for the state in the 200-yard individual medley where he placed 14th with a time of 2:03.1. He holds the school records for the 200 IM at 2:03.1. The 100-backstroke record (57.9) also belongs to Mark. Teammate Jeff Peterson is a sophomore and has great potential as a freestyler, according to coach Mance Tain who is looking forward to next season because "Papierski and Peterson will form a pretty good nucleus."

Glenn's Jensen also will be back in the Rockets' line-up a year from now when the 1986 conference champ in the 200 IM should be even tougher. He has covered the 200 IM in 2:00.05 and has been clocked in 4:48.2 for the 500-yard freestyle. He qualified for state in the 500 and didn't place and coach Larry McConnell considers Jensen "as an excellent college prospect."

Wayne's John Sharnetsky owns two school records: 22.1 for the 50-yard freestyle, good for second place in the league; and 58.2 in the backstroke also a runner-up medal in the league.

Wayne sophomore Mike Barnes went to state with the medley relay team and holds the soph record for the 100-yard butterfly, while Martin culminated a three-year varsity career with a gold medal at league in the 200-yard individual medley (2:06.1). He was second best in league for the 500 freestyle and traveled to the state finals as a member of the medley relay team and to compete in the 500-freestyle.

Olsen is coach of year

All sports are tough to coach. Few will deny that statement.

But, when you have a "program that is conducive to what you want to do and the caliber of kids who are hard-working, the job becomes a pleasure," according to Plymouth Salem's Chuck Olsen.

The 38-year-old Olsen has fielded 12 Salem swim and diving teams and this year's edition wound up with the Western Lakes Activities Conference championship. The Rocks also posted a 10-3 dual meet record. "I have been fortunate in that we have an excellent program here at Salem and I am very pleased with the caliber of kids who are coming out for the team. They are dedicated and hard-working athletes," Olsen said.

Behind every hard-working athlete is a harder-working coach, and Olsen fits that category. For his accomplishments, the Associated Newspapers have named Olsen as its "Coach of the Year."

Chuck and his wife, Linda, have two children: Lindsay, 17, and Erin, 15. The Olsens make their home in Plymouth.

Resident vies in Olympics

Belleville's Donna Hall will be competing in the Second Annual Distribution Olympics of Domino's Pizza from May 12-14 at the Fairlane Manor in Dearborn. The olympic games are called the "Rally of Champions"

First prize winners in 10 events will receive $4,000 each, while runners-up in the second, third and fourth place will win a silver commemorative ring. Four categories have a first prize dream vacation trip for two.

Greenfield Village:

Time turns back

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

Spring in Greenfield Village combines the enjoyment of observing the changing of the season with the viewing of special seasonal activities.

A special "bonus" of a visit to the Village during the spring is an opportunity to leisurely stroll through the exhibits and wander through the streets unhampered by the crowds that arrive with the summer season.

Throughout the day during the spring, exhibits of carding and spinning wool, grinding corn, and pottery making are featured. Visitors also can participate in the dairying operation at the Firestone Farmhouse as cream is skimmed for buttermaking and watch the milking of the cows at the Firestone barn. Demonstrations of wheel-wrighting, tinware making and textile looms are featured at scheduled intervals.

Among the women and young girls who tour the Village, Mrs. Cohen's Millinery Shop is a "must" stop to watch the making of hats by the shopowner herself—actually a Village employee in period dress.

Mrs. Cohen explained that the shop received basic hats and then milliners decorated them with feathers, flowers and ribbons to match the costumes of customers. Hats were purchased at $1.50 to $5 and, often, the basic hat was returned to the shop the next year for an update. No lady of the 1890s went anywhere without hat and gloves, Mrs. Cohen commented. Therefore, hats were not only decorative but a necessary part of women's attire.

The milliners at the Village store work with materials that are similar to those used before the turn of the century.

The shop, now located just across the street from the Wright Cycle Shop, originally was located on the northeast corner of Baker and 20th streets in Detroit. Mrs. Cohen advertised "fancy goods, dry goods and gents furnishings" which she described as "unrivaled in style, fit, workmanship and quality."

Mrs. Cohen is at the shop to explain her work at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. daily.

Greenfield Village is open seven days a week, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Insights shown on franchising

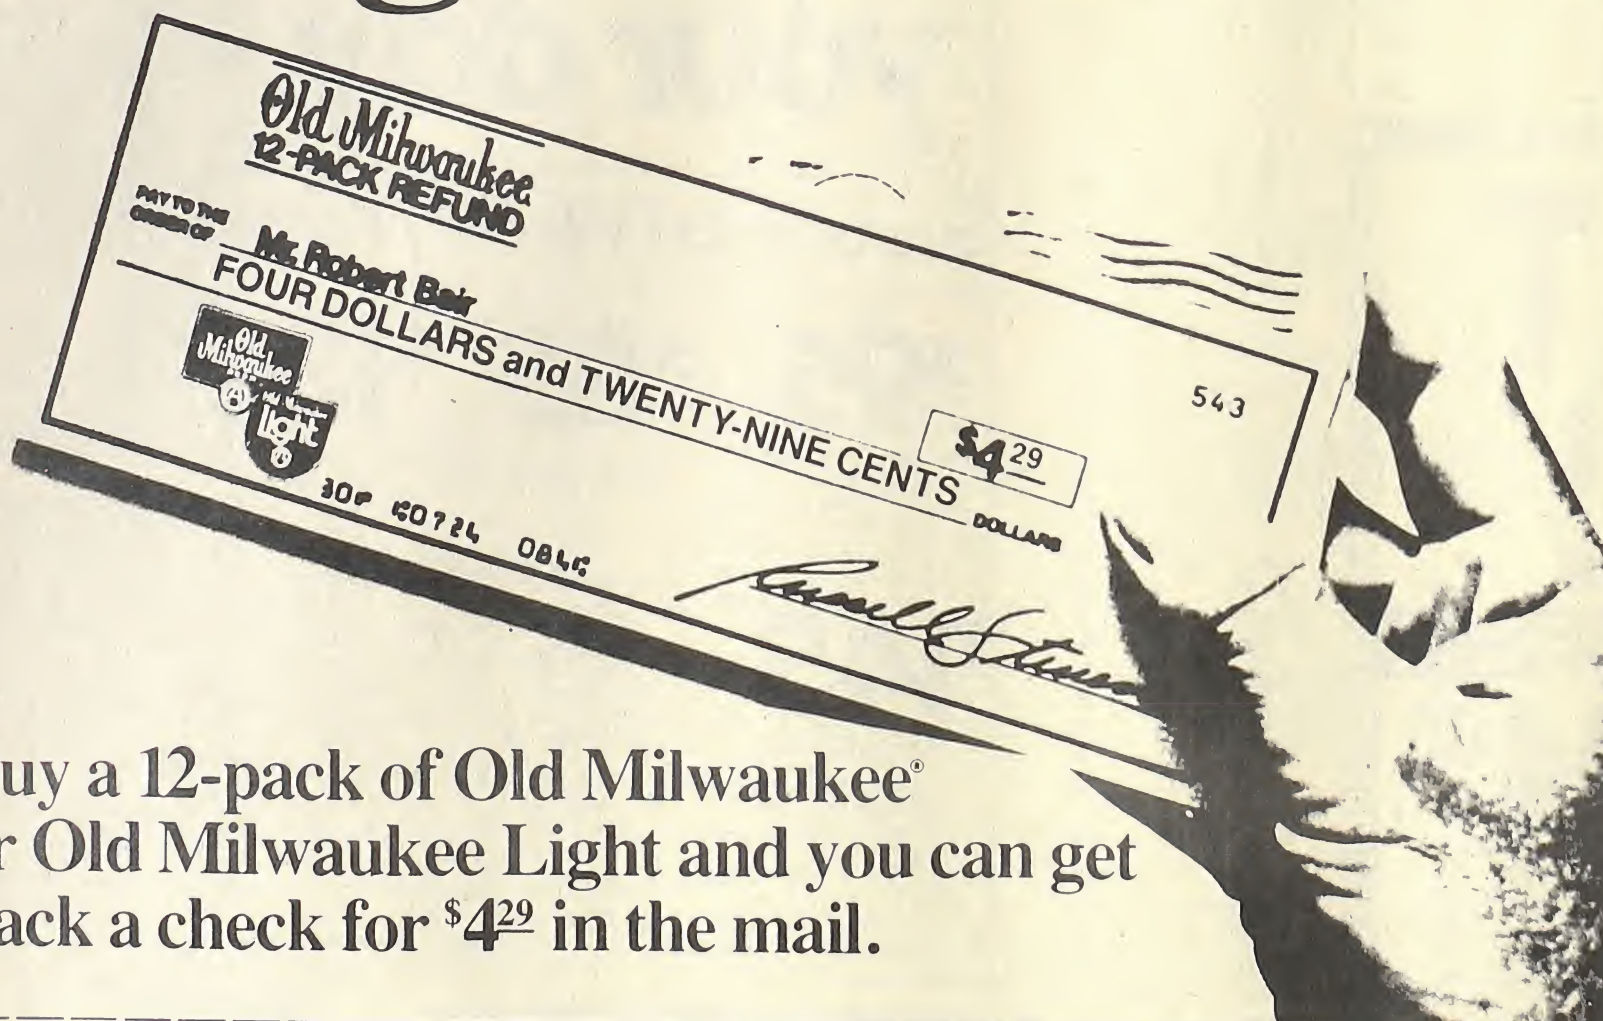

"World of Franchising," a show which is designed to provide insights into franchising operations, will be presented between noon and 6 p.m. May 17 and 18 at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

The show, sponsored by the International Franchise Association, will be preceded by a small business conference on May 16 in the Dearborn Ballroom of the facility.

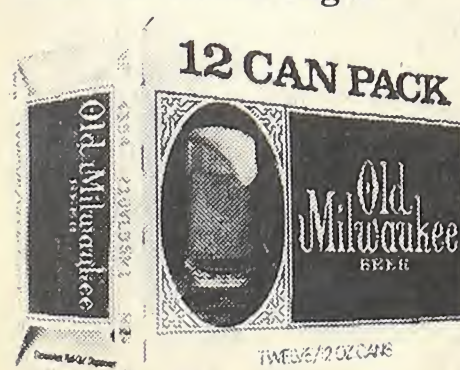

Mrs. Cohen's Millinery Shop (above) features hats from a bygone era.

Rolling right along

Cyclists ride to help Miss Liberty

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

One local recreational group has been spinning their wheels to find new ways to keep themselves amused. And their latest idea will find them spinning around a 30-mile course in Ann Arbor next Sunday.

The Westland Cycling Club began as a brainstorming idea in the Westland Department of Parks and Recreation in 1983. At the time, the group was known as the "Westland Wheelers" but wheelers, or cyclists, were far and few between.

"It just wasn't working out. We kind of decided that since we never really were under the recreation department and had never received any funding we would start our own group," said Janis Doyle, member of the Westland Cycling Club and current editor of the club newsletter.

Since becoming a private community group and renaming the club to the Westland Cycling Club, membership has blossomed to more than 60 members, Doyle said, and the focus of the organization has become one of recreation and social interaction instead of one where members attend meetings and remain dormant under the city-sponsored status.

The group meets monthly to discuss upcoming events and fundraising projects at the Bailey Recreation Center in Westland. Under the direction of President John Snetchkamp, the cyclists have peddled their ways throughout the local cities, down the I-275 bike path and even to Novi and Plymouth.

The highlight of the year is the Progressive Dinner where cyclists ride from house to house until they have consumed a full-course dinner. Doyle said that the event this year will be staged June 29. Club members will travel to one member's house for the appetizer, to another house for the main course and peddle their way to one last stop for the taste-tempting dessert. The special dinner as well as weekly riding excursions are all included in the $5 single membership or $7.50 membership for families.

Although the Progressive Dinner has tended to highlight all activities of the year for the group, Doyle reported that one event this year can even top the dinner on wheels. This year, the Westland Cycling Club has been chosen to organize and plan for the 1986 Kodak Liberty Ride Festival, another of the various nationwide projects designed to raise money for the restoration project of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island.

Staged locally in Ann Arbor, the Liberty Ride Festival will consist of three parts, according to Doyle. First, all cycling enthusiasts have been urged to participate in the 10-, 20- and 30-mile fun rides in and around Ann Arbor.

Stressing that the bicycle ride is not a race, Doyle said that the Westland Cycling Club will serve as volunteers throughout the course helping with traffic, first aid and water. In addition, the group has been visiting bicycling clubs throughout the Wayne County area in hopes of garnering additional interest in the Liberty Ride.

After the cycling, participants will enjoy a luncheon near the University of Michigan. A satellite-beamed live concert will follow at the Hill Auditorium where nationally known artists such as Huey Lewis and the News, Hall & Oates and the Hooters will perform. The actual concert will be staged in New Orleans but will be beamed via satellite to the 100 sites of the Liberty Ride across the country, Doyle said.

Registration for the event is $23 and includes a T-shirt, lunch and tickets to the concert. The "race" is limited to 4,000 bikers, according to Doyle. Proceeds will be used toward the Miss Liberty restoration project.

In addition to the shirt and ability to participate in the Liberty Ride, bicyclers will receive a $10 coupon toward the Kodak Family Album. Doyle explained that the coupon allows an individual to send in any type of photo to Kodak. The picture will be given a number and put onto a video tape located at the Statue of Liberty in New York. Family members, when visiting the national landmark, may punch their number into the video playback machine and their picture will appear on the screen.

Although the fanfare and plans have kept most every member of the Westland Cycling Club busy, Doyle was enthusiastic in saying that the event marks the biggest project club members have ever undertaken. In addition, she said, the group will earn

Barbecuing doesn't

By CHEF LARRY JANES
ANP Special Writer

A good barbecue — complete with a game of softball, an afternoon nap in the shade and maybe a cooling dip in the pool — is what I'm practicing for. I figure that by the Fourth of July, I'll be in great shape — having had all that practice. (And I'm not talking softball here folks!)

Just about any food tastes great against a backdrop of fresh air and sunshine. Simple grilled burgers and tube steaks can be as tasty and loving as a hearty casserole that has simmered all afternoon.

So get those potatoes simmering for potato salad. Shape the burgers and marinate the chicken. Soak the corn and make sure there's plenty of mustard, ketchup and relish in the refrigerator for, together they all spell summertime!

The good thing about barbecue food is that almost all the preparation work is done ahead — grilling is the only last minute cooking you need to consider. Ah, but before the coals are lit and/or the propane is turned on, a few basics to ensure a truly pleasurable and memorable summer of barbecuing. (Yes, those who play hard have to work hard, if just for a little while!)

To begin, if you own a regular charcoal-type grill/or kettle-grill and like me, set it away with virtually no cleaning, only to be greeted with great gobs of gunk adhering to the grid, sides, top, handle and innards, get out the oven-cleaning mits and get to work.

To make the job a little easier, the grid rack can be easily cleaned by placing it in a large plastic garbage bag to which a quart of full-strength ammonia has been added. Secure with a twist tie and lay flat in the sun for two hours. Remove the grid and hose off. The ammonia really cuts the grease and fat build-up and a strong hosing usually removes most stubborn gunk. If needed, a quick swish with the wire brush will surely do the trick.

While the grid is basking in the bag, I remove any excess ashes with the shop-vac and then spray the interior with oven cleaner. An old long-handled toilet brush works great for light scouring. The exterior and lid gets a good wash with a good grease-cutting detergent. Then, after a final hose-down rinse and a short air dry on a sunny day, I oil the wheels for easy gliding, rub some vegetable oil into the wood handles and spray the grid with a light coating of non-stick spray. Gas grills can follow the same procedures but the burners should be removed and thoroughly cleaned to prevent clogging. Use small wooden skewers to clean the holes and always do a test run before cooking. Use an oven thermometer to make sure internal heat reaches at least 365 degrees with the lid closed for five minutes. This will prevent any possibility of having to turn those beautiful steaks into tartare. Of course, while all this is happening, it is mandatory that the doer have a complete stock of necessary thirst quenchers. Yours truly always looks at the task and decides on a scale of one to 10 how difficult it will be. This allows me to compensate with the barkeepers sliding scale of toughness.

If the grill is in really bad shape, the Molson Golden might get pre-empted by a Margarita. Gee, I'll never forget the year we bought the grill and I had to assemble it — that was a Southern Comfort Manhattan afternoon! Once the grill is set, check the tools of the trade. Can opener with functioning church-key. Check. Corkscrew. Check. (For cooking wines, of course). Cooler, cleaned with drainhole unplugged. Check. Pastry brush (Brand new.) Check. (After the Margarita afternoon last year, the plastic bristles of the old brush melted onto the 22 pound butterball turkey. (This year, camelhair. Check.) Tongs. Longhandle. Check. (No more singed, hairless arms!) Metal spatula, longhandled. Check. Dings, flattened out. Spitfork, longhandled. Check. (New this year, I used them last year to clean out my gutters.)

have to be bullish

Elbow-lengthed barbecue mitt. Contrary to what Timex says, it cannot take a baking and keep on ticking. Check. Spray bottle. Check. (New this year. Ruined nine pounds of ribs when I used a Windex bottle by mistake. Tied one of those cute little chains around it and fastened it to my barbecue so the kids won't get it.)

For once in my life I had the foresight to purchase 50 pounds of charcoal last fall at closeout prices. I'll drink to that. Now all I need is Sears to come out and fix my automatic ice maker and I'll be ready come Memorial Day weekend. Can't wait? Try out these test recipes and let me know your secrets. I'll compile them and do an update for the Fourth of July. Bon Appetit!

CHEDDAR BURGERS

4 swordfish steaks (or similar firm grilling fish)
2 cups parsley
2 hard boiled eggs
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup capers

Brush swordfish steaks with melted butter. Place on a lightly oiled grill and grill till cooked throughout, about 30 minutes uncovered. Meanwhile, combine remaining ingredients in a blender or processor and process until smooth. Serve as a dipping sauce or accompaniment with swordfish steaks or any fish.

(Trust me on this one folks, it's great!!)

BARBECUE GRILLED EGGPLANT

(Serves 4)
1 medium eggplant, sliced into 1 1/2 inch thick slabs
2 cups bottled Italian salad dressing
1/4 cup parmesan cheese
Allow sliced eggplant to marinate in Italian dressing for 2 hours. Grill over hot coals, brushing with Italian dressing as a sauce. Just before serving and eggplant is tender, sprinkle with parmesan cheese.

WATERMELON PUNCH

(Makes about 1 1/2 quarts)
14 lb. watermelon
2 pints strawberries, hulled
1/2 cup sugar
1-12 oz. can frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed
2 cups vodka (optional)
Remove watermelon from shell, seed and blend until smooth. Strain through sieve in a large bowl until juice measures 7 cups. Blend strawberries with sugar until smooth. Stir into watermelon mixture with remaining ingredients. Refrigerate. Can be served in hollowed-out and carved watermelon basket with long straws.

national recognition to extensive publicity and advertising now being done by Kodak, sponsor of the Liberty Ride.

"This is the largest cycling event that the Westland Cycling Club has ever undertaken," said Doyle. "We are honored and proud to have the opportunity to spearhead this important event in Ann Arbor."

While the May 18 ride is only days away, Doyle said that she is still optimistic that the registrations will start pouring in. For, as she put it, "it's a wonderful opportunity for every American citizen to celebrate his or her roots and such an important national monument as the Statue of Liberty."

Paliwoda, of Canton, has worked in the production department of Entertainment Publications of Birmingham and as an editorial and advertising support representative for the Metro Times of Detroit. She is a member of Women in Communications, Inc. She received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Tiltman is a Clarkston resident.

OWNERS OF MICHIGAN THERMAL WINDOW CORP. of Wayne donated four screen doors to needy Wayne residents recently. Tammy Smith and Kirk Tyler (right), co-owners of the business, gave the doors and complete installation away instead of placing them on sale. The door and installation normally sell for $190 retail, Tyler said, but it's not the money that mattered. "I grew up in Wayne and I thought it would be nice to make some people happy who cannot afford to pay for the doors."

DOORS: Gifts for the needy.

Local business has area in stitches

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

Don Farmer is just in stitches because of his latest business venture and he is hoping the surrounding areas will want to join him.

Farmer, the owner of Star Optical, Star Monogramming and soon-to-be Star Industries on Michigan Avenue in Wayne, has been sewing things for years at his plant where eye glass cases are manufactured. However, in the past year, Farmer and co-owner Mona Farmer have started to sew different items as well as sew things on their wares instead of just sewing the goods together.

The firm now produces one-quarter of all the Dominoes Pizza pouches (the containers used by deliverers to transport the treasured treats from the local restaurant to the home) in the nation. In addition, Farmer and his company are making claim to a new golfing glove not yet on the market that will "change every golfer's game."

As if the pizza-pouch business and golfing gloves didn't keep his small operation busy, Farmer recently purchased a $60,000 embroidery machine that he hopes will turn the wheels on the monogramming and iron-on-transfer industry.

The computer-operated gadget features 12 heads each with five different colors of thread. According to Farmer, the machine has the ability to put a logo on a baseball hat, coat or jersey quicker than ever before.

"People do it (monogramming) for image. There's so much competition they have to go one step further. People want their name on anything they wear. Before, this was not possible but now it is with this type of machine."

"This machine has the capability of doing 12 baseball caps at one time. It's the only one of its kind in the Wayne County area."

Having the machine a little more than three weeks, Farmer said basically his business has been a wholesale one, although he would like to attract customers off the street as well. In preparing company logos, the new monogramming machine has already been used to prepare logos for Tubby's Sub Shops, Dominoes Pizza, and a local union of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Even as making hats and coats, shirts and sweaters that boast business names and motifs clearly represent the bulk of his business and profits, Farmer said his interest is in the residential and community scene preparing baseball hats and team uniforms.

"We would like to get baseball teams, bowling shirts, restaurant logos," Farmer said. "Right now we're even doing aprons for Chuck Muer's."

As for why the monogramming fad has been such a hit in the area, Farmer couldn't pinpoint an explanation. He did say, however, that the fad is a reality and is here to stay and he hopes his business can reap the profits of it.

"People do it (monogramming) for image. There's so much competition they have to go one step further," Farmer remarked. "People want their name on anything they wear. Before, this was not possible but now it is with this type of machine."
